Digital study guide

Orientation

If you are considering to study abroad, all sorts of questions may pop up. On this page, you'll find practical information that helps you with arranging your study or internship abroad.

International Office

ESA's International Office can help you with the following questions:

- partner universities abroad
- opportunities for grants
- TU/e's study/internship travel insurances, which is free
- international study associations
- and many, many more

Be sure to contact the International Office in time. Some grants require an application at least 3 months before departure. You could also contact your department's internationalization coordinator or internship supervisor to ask if there are concrete possibilities for an exchange or internship abroad.

Travel reports of other students

It could be helpful to read travel reports written by other students that went abroad for an exchange or internship. You could gain information and/or visualize what you can expect in your preferred country/city.

Travel reports developing countries

Curious about a study or internship in a developing country? At the website of TU/e University Committee Technology for Global Development (TGD) you could read travel reports of students who went to study or do an internship in a developing country

Outgoing internship/project/research abroad

Mobility Online

Mobility Online offers a centralized administrative system to register and manage all international incoming and outgoing exchanges and is also used for managing the bilateral exchange agreements with international partner universities. Next to that, the procedures and scholarships concerning exchange, internships and research projects abroad will be managed in Mobility Online as well.

Exchange – courses abroad

On this page you will find instructions and a manual for your online application process for courses abroad. Before applying for courses abroad, please first contact your departmental coordinator. Please note that you first need your departments/programs approval for courses abroad before you start your application in Mobility Online.

Internship, project or research abroad

Here you will find instructions and a manual for your online application process for internship or research project abroad. Before filling in the proposal form in Mobility Online for abroad, please first contact your departmental coordinator.
