When you have switched to the bachelor IE, you will get an adapted BSA recommendation. When you switch before February 1st of the academic year, this will lead to an adapted BSA norm for that concerning academic year. When you switch after February 1st of the academic year, the BSA recommendation will be postponed till the next academic year. You will get an adapted BSA norm for the next academic year. The following information is meant for an adapted BSA norm for students who start the new bachelor at September 1st. In all cases you preferably contact the academic advisor for the first year IE-students to discuss your planning and your BSA norm.

To get a positive Binding Study Recommendation (BSA) at the end of the first academic year at IE, you need to have passed 75% of all open first year courses (rounded up). Only courses passed in the first academic year at IE count for the determination of the Binding Study Recommendation. All courses passed in previous academic years, at other programs, aren't considered as courses passed in the concerning academic year and will therefore not be taken into account at the calculation of the BSA. Though, these earlier passed courses can still be part of the exam program.

Besides this, there is also a progression demand of 45 ECTS (75% of the total academic year). You need to supplement, where necessary the first year courses with second year courses and/or electives.

A numeric example: suggest you are an IE-student and you have 10 first year courses which are open (50 ECTS). Your BSA-norm will be $75\% * 50 \text{ ECTS} = 37,5 \text{ ECTS}$. Your personal BSA-norm will be 40 ECTS, or in other words a minimum of 8 first year courses. On top of that you have to pass at least for 5 ECTS of other first or second year courses to get a positive BSA recommendation.

In the case that there are personal circumstances during your first academic year at IE, the examination committee can decide to adjust the norm for your specific situation. You can send in a request for this (for more information look at the digital study guide for IE).

The examination committee will let you know what the exact BSA norm for you personally will be somewhere around the middle of September. If you have any question relating the BSA-norm, you can contact the academic advisor for the first year IE-students
