

Statement of addition of dissertation to Library collection and to TU/e Repository

The doctoral graduate shall supply to the Information Expertise Center:

1. the digital version of the dissertation in pdf format via IEC.digitaal@tue.nl
2. the signed declaration form via IEC.digitaal@tue.nl, or when delivering the hard copies, permission to make the dissertation publicly available in the printed library collection and for open access to the digital version via the TU/e Repository. Exceptions may be made with permission from the dean. The doctoral graduate retains copyright.
3. 2 hard copies of the dissertation. If the dissertation appears exclusively as a commercial edition 3 copies are to be supplied.

Dissertations in printed library collection and open access via TU/e Repository

All dissertations are added to the library collection and are made available to the general public. Hard-copy versions of recent dissertations are available for review, not available for loan. As standard procedure, open access to digital versions is offered via the TU/e repository (<http://repository.tue.nl/>). If this standard procedure is to be deviated from, the doctoral graduate will require prior permission from the dean of his/her department. Such exceptions must be communicated to the Information Expertise Center on delivery of the dissertation, by way of a signed statement.

Approval from dean for dissertation embargo

(Complete only when embargo is requested)

Embargoes may be placed on dissertations in exceptional cases.

All dissertations are made available to the general public, both in their hard-copy and digital versions, unless the doctoral graduate has obtained prior consent from the dean of his/her department to divert from the standard procedure.

Please check the box of your choice below. A temporary embargo on a dissertation may be placed if:

- Certain chapters from your dissertation are to be published as separate articles
- The hard copy of the dissertation is immediately added to the printed library collection with 'for review, not available for loan' status. The digital version of dissertation is immediately added to TU/e Repository with 'campus only' status. When embargo on digital version expires status of dissertation in TU/e repository changes to 'open access'.
 - Digital embargo set by dean: 6 months / 1 year / 2 years (cross out what does not apply)
- A patent is to be applied for based on research results described in your dissertation
- The hard copy of your dissertation is initially not placed in the open library collection, but kept in storage by the Information Expertise Center. When embargo expires hard copy is added to printed library collection with status 'for review, not available for loan'.
 - The digital version of your dissertation is initially not placed in the TU/e Repository, but kept in storage by the Information Expertise Center. When embargo expires digital version is added to TU/e Repository with status 'open access'.
 - Embargo set by dean: 6 months / 1 year / 2 years (cross out what does not apply)
- Your dissertation is to be published as a commercial edition
- The hard copy of your dissertation is immediately added to the printed library collection with status 'for loan'.
 - Please contact the Information Expertise Center to discuss an appropriate arrangement for offering the digital version of your dissertation via the TU/e Repository. Options depend on contractual conditions which you have agreed with your publisher.

In highly exceptional cases a doctoral graduate may wish for an embargo for reasons other than those listed above. Substantive arguments must then be put forward to the rector to obtain his/her approval.
